

As it is, I rarely watch TV. Since making all TV digital, it's next to impossible to get a good signal without paying a cable company. I believe TV should be free and I'm not going to pay someone to watch all the ads that I'm subjected to while being "entertained". That being said, I will throw out my antenna and not allow television in my home if the current "standards" are thrown out. Nudity has no place in my children's entertainment, nor in mine. I don't allow profanity in my home and I won't allow it in my nor my children's viewing either. If you do away with the current standards, you will be degrading what little decency is left in our public media. I am 100% opposed to this action.
